

AeroEx GmbH and Infotel Partner to Accelerate Digital Transformation in Aerospace Compliance

Widnau, Switzerland / Paris, France – April 14, 2026 – As regulatory complexity and digital transformation continue to reshape the aerospace industry, AeroEx GmbH, a Swiss-based consultancy and software provider specializing in aviation safety and compliance, today announced a strategic partnership with Infotel, a leading French IT and software engineering group. As part of the agreement, Infotel acquired a 20% minority stake in AeroEx in January 2026, with the intention of increasing its shareholding over the coming years to support continued growth and international expansion.

The partnership addresses one of the most pressing challenges in the aerospace sector: managing increasingly complex regulatory requirements while improving operational efficiency through digital solutions. By combining AeroEx's deep domain expertise in aviation compliance and safety with Infotel's extensive capabilities in software engineering and scalable IT systems, the two companies aim to deliver next-generation solutions for the global aerospace market.

A central focus of the collaboration is the continued development and international expansion of AMAS.aero, AeroEx's cloud-based platform for compliance and safety management. The platform enables aerospace organizations to streamline regulatory processes, manage audits and inspections, and enhance safety performance through digitalization, automation, and intelligent workflows.

“We are proud to welcome Infotel as a strategic partner at this important stage of our journey,” said Helmut Gottschalk and Joel Hencks, Managing Directors of AeroEx GmbH. “This partnership allows us to combine deep regulatory expertise with scalable technology to address one of the key challenges in aerospace—managing complexity while driving efficiency and growth. It will accelerate the evolution of AMAS.aero, expand our global sales and partner network, and ultimately deliver even greater value to our customers worldwide.”

Infotel brings more than 45 years of experience in IT and software engineering, with over 3,100 employees, more than 730 customers, and annual revenues exceeding €300 million. The company has a strong track record in supporting organizations through complex digital transformation initiatives across industries.

“AeroEx combines exceptional expertise in highly regulated aviation environments with an innovative and scalable platform,” said Eric Fabretti, CEO of Infotel. In particular, AMAS.aero complements our Orlando offering very well, creating powerful synergies between regulatory expertise and advanced software capabilities. Together, we aim to expand internationally, leverage these synergies, and actively support the digital transformation of the aerospace sector.”

Orlando, developed by Infotel, is a cloud-based solution for managing aviation technical publications and documentation, widely used by airlines and MRO organizations.

The transaction is structured as a long-term strategic partnership, beginning with a 20% minority participation and a shared ambition to deepen collaboration over time.

Importantly, there will be no changes to AeroEx's operations as a result of the transaction. The company will continue to operate under its existing name, with its current management team and structure remaining in place. Customers will continue to work with their existing contacts while benefiting from enhanced technological capabilities, expanded international reach, and increased innovation capacity.
